Why Amplify After School Symposium Uses a Three-Tier Ticketing Model

Amplify uses a three-tier ticketing model to ensure the symposium remains accessible, sustainable and sector-strengthening. The after-school ecosystem in South Africa is diverse, spanning grassroots organisations, NGOs, funders, practitioners, policymakers and private sector partners, etc. This tiered approach allows participants to contribute according to their organisational context and capacity, while enabling The Learning Trust to deliver a high-quality convening.

Subsidised Tickets are offered to practitioners and community-based organisations who are closest to implementation and often operate with limited resources. This ensures that on-the-ground voices, those directly working with children and youth, are present and centred in the conversation.

Standard Tickets (tier 1) reflect the true cost of participation, including venue, programme delivery, speaker costs and convening infrastructure. These tickets are aimed at NGOs, networks, and professionals whose organisations can reasonably absorb conference participation costs.

By choosing a tier that aligns with your capacity, you are not only securing your place at the Amplify After School Symposium, but you are actively contributing to a more equitable, representative and impactful after-school sector.

If you are still experiencing trouble and would like some assistance with booking, please email:

info@thelearningtrust.org. We are ready to assist.

Thank you!
